

POWER OF CRYSTAL BALLS

Crystal balls for good fortune, luck, protection, etc.

Crystal Balls are popular among avid collectors of mineral stones as well as Fengshui enthusiasts to enhance good energy in the house or office for fortune and protection. The Chinese affectionately call it You

Qiu Bi Ying (有球必应) – literally meaning “whatever you ask for you will get it.”

Other than its decorative and ornamental values, crystal balls can be used for the following purposes:

- Fengshui Placement – offering protection and uplifting energy in premises to attract good fortune and luck.
- Meditation Aid – Helps concentration and enhances energy and protection during meditation.
- Scrying – For spiritual vision, fortune telling and divination.

First decide on what you need the crystal ball for – for meditation, for wearing, keeping with you in a pouch, for divination or for Fengshui luck attraction or protection. That will determine its size – from 40 mm to 100 over mm, as well as the clarity of the crystal ball.

Bigger natural quartz balls are generally more expensive, especially those that are clear with lesser flaws. By comparison, citrine crystal balls, especially favoured for its excellent luck attracting property. They are more expensive than white crystal balls, and so are those made of smoky quartz or amethyst.

Crystal balls are fashioned into spherical shapes from large slab of natural quartz. The wastage of natural quartz involved in the manufacturing process of the balls makes them more expensive.

Ask for the country of origin when you purchase the balls from the rock shops. Generally, the better quality white crystal balls come from Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina or United States (Arkansas), or some European countries (Alps region), or Tibet of China (Himalaya). It is advisable to buy from reputable shops, and reliable sources.

Some also prefer the ball to have some inclusions, for example, some want the needle like formation of needle shaped rutiles to be in the stone, giving it an extra zap in energy.

Some crystals come with different colours, such as green, yellow, purple, etc. Others have layers of shade, (often in green colour) which are call pyramid formations. Green colour formation in quartz is also known as phantom and they are supposed to help bring about abundance in wealth and business growth.

Genuine quartz balls have some natural inclusions or flaws; whereas those imitations are often exceptionally clear and unnaturally free from impurities. Fake crystal balls made of glass and other synthetic material is commonly sold in the market. But once you can feel the vibrations of natural quartz, you can tell the difference between a genuine and an imitation stone. If you know how to use your third eye to scan, the fake quartz will give you a blocked feeling on the chakra when you look at it; the genuine one will give you a pleasant and lively vibration, especially stirring your Crown Chakra.

Ultimately, you have to use your gut feel, or intuition to choose your crystal ball. It is often said that if the stone is suitable for you, you will intuitively be drawn to it.

Thank you for reading my article on crystal balls. I hope the guidelines are helpful as to how you choose crystal ball to suit your own purposes.

For those who are interested in using crystal balls and stones to enhance the feng shui in the house and or office, you may wish to refer to my previous article at: <http://www.winforever.net/e-wbox/Crystals & Stones-Mar16.pdf>

Master Anthony Leong

I am available for consultation on choosing and buying, cleansing and blessing crystal balls for good fortune, luck and protection.